

Setup Guide

Everything you need to get the tool running on your computer and produce your first client report.

Read this once. Setting up takes about ten minutes, and you only do it once.

What this tool is

One file that runs on your own computer. Nothing to install, no account to create, and no internet needed once you have it. Client information never leaves your machine, it is not sent anywhere, stored anywhere, or visible to anyone else.

Before you start

If you change computer, you will need the download link again.

You will also need Google Chrome. Other browsers will open the tool, but the client report will not print correctly. Install Chrome before you use this with a client.

Setting up

Step 1 Download the tool

Click the download link in Team Tools repository. The file saves to your Downloads folder.

It is an .html file. That is normal, it is not a web page you visit, it is the whole tool in one file.

Step 2 Give it a home

Do not leave it in Downloads. You will lose it.

- Windows: open File Explorer → Documents → right-click → New → Folder. Name it Wealth Position Review.
- Mac: open Finder → Documents → File → New Folder. Name it Wealth Position Review.

Drag the downloaded file into that folder.

Step 3 Open it in Chrome

To make Chrome open it every time:

- Windows: right-click → Open with → Choose another app → Google Chrome → tick “Always use this app”.
- Mac: right-click → Get Info → Open with → Google Chrome → Change All.

Step 4 Turn off Chrome's print headers

Do this now, before your first client report. Chrome prints the date, the page number and the full file path from your computer onto every page. On a client document it looks unprofessional and shows your folder structure.

Open the tool, press Ctrl+P (Cmd+P on Mac), click More settings, and untick Headers and footers. Chrome remembers it.

Why this is not in the tool

Those lines are drawn by the browser, not by the file. No setting inside the tool can remove them. It is one checkbox, once per computer.

Step 5 Enter your details

At the top of the tool, open the panel marked “Your details” and fill in:

- Full name
- Title, for example Financial Professional
- Phone, email and website
- A one-line tagline for the report cover

These appear on the report cover, the heading and the footer of every printed page. Anything you leave blank is simply left out, nothing prints empty.

Logo: click Upload logo if you have one. If you do not, the tool draws a mark from your initials automatically, and the report still looks finished.

Step 6 Save your own copy — the most important step

Once your details are in, click Save as HTML and save the file into your Wealth Position Review folder. Name it with your own name, for example wealth-position-review-alex-martin.html.

That copy has your name, contact details and logo already built in. Work from it from now on. You never have to type your details again.

The one mistake to avoid

The file you downloaded is a blank template. Never do client work in it. Always open your own saved copy, and save a separate client file for each client.

Step 7 Make it open like an app (optional)

So you are not hunting for the file every time.

- A shortcut — Windows: right-click → Show more options → Send to → Desktop (create shortcut). Mac: right-click → Make Alias, then drag it to your Dock.
- As an app — with the file open in Chrome, click the : menu → Cast, save and share → Install page as app. It then opens in its own window and appears in your Start menu or Launchpad.

Step 8 Set up your client folders

Inside your Wealth Position Review folder, create a folder called Clients, with a folder inside it for each client.

For each client:

- Open your saved copy of the tool.
- Enter their information.
- Click Save client file and save it into that client's folder.
- Next meeting, open the tool first, then click Open client file to load them back.

The client file is small and holds only what you typed. It does not contain the tool, so always open the tool first.

Step 9 Check it works

Before your first real client, spend two minutes:

- Type a name and a date of birth — the age should appear beside it.
- Add a monthly amount to one account — the numbers should move immediately.
- Click Preview report — a report should build on screen with your name on the cover.
- Click Client report (PDF) → Save as PDF → Save.
- Open the PDF and check there is no date or file path on the pages. If there is, go back to Step 4.

If all five work, you are set up.

Before you use it with a client

It saves nothing by itself

Close the tab without saving the client file and the work is gone. Save as you go.

Nothing is sent anywhere — and nothing is backed up

No cloud, no server. That is good for privacy, but it means your client folder is the only copy. Keep it somewhere that gets backed up.

Do not change the disclaimers

The disclaimers and the notes about assumed returns are reviewed wording. Change the figures, never the legal text.

Anything marked “advisor view” never prints

Those boxes are for you. They are hidden automatically in the client report. Do not copy them into anything client-facing.

The rate of return is your responsibility

The tool will accept any rate you type. It is an assumption you are making on the client's behalf, and you have to be able to defend it. Keep it conservative and consistent with the portfolios actually under consideration.

When a new version is released

You will get an email with a new download link. Download it, enter your details again, and Save as HTML to make a fresh personal copy.

Your client files still work — open the new version and load the client file as usual. Keep the previous version until you have checked that a client file opens correctly in the new one.

If something goes wrong

What you see	What to do
Page is blank or looks broken	You opened it in the wrong browser. Use Chrome.
Date, page number or a file path on the report	Chrome's print headers are still on. See Step 4.
Report prints with pieces cut off or the wrong colours	In the print window use Save as PDF, leave margins on Default, and tick Background graphics.
Your name or logo is missing from the report	You are working in the blank template. Open your own saved copy instead — Step 6.
Client file will not open	Open the tool first, then use Open client file. Do not double-click the client file on its own.
Numbers look wrong	Check the rate of return, and check whether the page is set to today's dollars or future dollars. These two explain most surprises.
File is lost	Download it again from the link in your email. You only lose the blank template, not your client files.

Canada and the United States

The tool works the same way in both countries. The accounts have different names and different contribution rules, but everything in this guide is identical.

Purpose	Canada	United States
Tax-free growth	TFSA	Roth IRA
Tax-deferred retirement	RRSP	Traditional IRA / 401(k)
Workplace plan	Group RRSP	401(k)
Children's education	RESP	529 Plan
First home	FHSA	—
No tax shelter	Non-registered	Taxable / brokerage

Use the version for the country you are licensed in. Do not use one country's version for the other's client — the contribution limits and tax treatment built into it will be wrong.

Setup questions go to your upline. Never send client files by email or chat.
